ARGUMENTS IN FAVOR

According to the bill author, the VA attempted to create a centralized system of purchasing medical and surgical supplies in an effort to cut costs, however, this system was developed with "inadequate input from experienced clinicians." According to Rep. Peters, H.R.5418 will drive down healthcare costs by creating competition and increasing transparency. This bill is a legislative fix to a problem identified in a December 2017 Government Accountability Office report which underscored high costs and lack of efficiency and lack of competition in how medical supplies are purchased.

ARGUMENTS IN OPPOSITION

Increased regulation in the VA could result in slower purchasing or delayed acquisition of necessary medical and surgical supplies.

MORE INFORMATION

The Medical-Surgical Prime Vendor Program is the VA's system of contracts it uses to purchase and dispense medical and surgical supplies.

H.R.5418 also requires that the VA report to Congress on a quarterly basis the individual VA employees who purchase medical supplies and describe their medical expertise. The Congressional Budget Office estimates that implementation of the bill would cost less than $500,000 between 2019 and 2023 to prepare the necessary reports to Congress.
