

Pemcor Packaging's Redesigned Website

San Diego, California - November 16, 2020 – In the fast-changing packaging world, one of the biggest challenges is keeping business-to-business customers well informed about packaging solutions and capabilities. Today's businesses have so many packaging options that providing the most innovative and sustainable solutions is imperative to meet the needs of customers while also driving growth.

As part of its ongoing efforts to meet this challenge, Pemcor Packaging recently launched a new company brand identity and a redesigned website emphasizing a solutions-based approach catering to our business customers. A Spanish language option has also been added to the website for the Mexican market, which represents an increasingly important focus for the company.

Please stay connected with Pemcor Packaging's website featuring industry information and innovative, sustainable packaging solutions for a broad range of businesses including those in the food and beverage, medical, retail, industrial and numerous other markets.
