Ernst & Young Announces Sayed Ali as Semifinalist for Entrepreneur of the Year for Second-Consecutive Year
President, Sayed Ali of San Diego-based Interpreters Unlimited Receives Second Accolade of 2018

SAN DIEGO, April 10, 2018—Interpreters Unlimited, Inc. announced today that its President & CEO, Sayed Ali, is a semi-finalist for Ernst & Young’s Entrepreneur of the Year 2018. The Entrepreneur of the Year is the most prestigious business award for entrepreneurs in the world, and this marks Ali’s second-consecutive year as a semi-finalist, since he achieved the status of finalist in 2003 with his previous company.

To be eligible for the Entrepreneur of the Year program, Ernst & Young requires nominees to be an owner, executive, or manager of a private or public company who is responsible for the company’s overall performance. Past winners have excelled in leading their industries by creating new product categories and successfully implementing innovative technologies in the workplace.

“On behalf of Sayed, we are honored to have our president chosen as a semi-finalist for the Entrepreneur of the Year program, and for leading our team as we continue to serve the limited-English speaking and underserved populations of our nation through creative and innovative technologies and strategic marketing tactics,” said, Shamus Sayed, vice president and chief operations officer of Interpreters Unlimited, Inc.

The panel of judges includes past winners, leading CEOs, private equity and venture capital investors, and other regional business influencers. The San Diego Regional Award winners for the program (overall) will be announced at the Fairmont Grand Del Mar on June 7, 2018.
