

Christine Moore, Executive Director of External Affairs AT&T, San Diego & Imperial Counties

Christine Moore serves as AT&T Executive Director of External Affairs in San Diego and Imperial Counties, managing relationships with local and regional governments, advocating on public policy issues, building community partnerships, and overseeing corporate philanthropic contributions.

Christine has worked for elected officials on both sides of the aisle at the City, County, and State levels and has also served on the boards of several California-based non-profit organizations. She has also previously chaired the Chula Vista Cultural Arts Commission, the South County EDC (SCEDC) Public Policy Committee and fundraised to improve the quality of life for San Diego's at-risk and underserved communities.

Christine has been recognized for her efforts by President Barack Obama, the U.S. Congress, the California State Senate and Assembly, the County of San Diego, the Cities of San Diego, Chula Vista and National City, and by the Society of Professional Journalists and the San Diego Press Club for her work. She has earned the California State Assembly Women's Caucus Woman of the Year award by Assemblymember Lorena Gonzalez, Businesswoman of the Year by the San Diego Regional East County Chamber of Commerce and SCEDC's Marilyn Lassman Lifetime Achievement Award.

Christine is married to Jason and has three children.